Flag Raising

On Sept. 19th at 2:30 p. m., there will be a Flag Raising and Exhibition Drill at the Oglesby School, 77th and Green St. Several squads of jackies will participate, and the Naval Militia Band will furnish music.

Capt. Edw. A. Evers, of the Grant Park Navy Training Camp, will deliver a talk to the Parent Teacher Association, and we can assure you it will be very interesting, inasmuch as the ladies of the Association are working for the welfare of his recruits.

All are welcome.

The Oglesby School Parent-Teacher Association will continue doing Red Cross work.

Miss Rose Fitzpatrick entertained the Jolly Junior Girls' Club Tuesday evening, Aug. 21st. Election of officers took place. Bernedette Duee was re-elected as President; Lillian Ziemmer, vice president; Blanche Weber, secretary; Rose Northrupe, treasurer.

Mr. Clarence Rainwater has resigned his position as director of Hamilton Park fieldhouse to become dean of the American College of Physical Education, 42nd St. and Grand Blvd. Mr. Rainwater has been at Hamilton Park for seven years. We wish you all success, Mr. Rainwater, and heartily thank you for all the pleasures we have had at Hamilton Park.

Miss Amanda Meshke and her sister, Clara Meshke, entertained the Jolly Junior Girls and other friends Saturday evening, August 25th. All had a delightful time.

You can get another season's wear out of an Overcoat by having a new collar or lining put on. If you bring in your repair work now we will be able to do it better and quicker than if you wait till cold weather comes when everybody awnts their work done at once. We do Repairing, Relining, Cleaning, Pressing and Altering. Our charges are reasonable.

A Booster Every Week

Commencing with this issue The Auburn Community Booster will be published every Tuesday instead of every other Wednesday as heretofore.

We invite the secretaries of all clubs, lodges, societies, churches or other organizations to send in announcements of all activities, which will be cheerfully published if signed.

Our columns are open to all clean, authentic news, likely to be of interest to residents in this community, the only stipulation being that they be signed by the sender and received at our office not later than Saturday noon.

Information for Red Cross Workers

If President Wilson were to draft the women of the U. S. you may not be called into active service. Our boys are off to "somewhere in France" and with them how many nurses have joined the colors, how man yforeign women have opened their homes for hospital uses, how many are working daily for the women and children refugees? Are you exempt from active service in your own city, in your own home? Every woman and child can do something. Some women are devoting all or most of their time to Red Cross work, but their number is small. Do you realize it is your duty to contribute labor, material, or money? Plan to do some one thing each week—one sheet or pillow case for the hospital; donate a certain su meach week; teach your children to save a penny a day for a little orphan. The Red Cross suggests giving your old camera to a soldier or a sailor. Take pictures of his loved ones and send him the prints. Next to letters, pictures are most acceptable. The smaller the camera the better.

Perhaps you can best answer your country's call by entering the nursing service. This is your opportunity. Join a regular nurses' training school. These are conducted in most every hospital in America. Your services are NOT wanted on the battlefield or even in a hospital. It is only the professional nurse who is accepted. A thousand have gone; thousands may follow. Each will leave a vacancy to be filled. Will you apply for one? Unless we are assured of substitutes we cannot send our experienced nurses, and who will then aid our soldiers and sailors? Must they die while we loaf at home?

The Red Cross sincerely hopes for young women to step forward in this great cause.

"THE MILE A MINUTE GIRLS"

The attraction at the Englewood Theatre week of Sept. 9th is one with the speed-limit title—"The Mile a Minute Girls"—and from all reports this show is travelling far beyond the speed limit and going strong.

It's a story of politics, espionage, graft and intrigue and is said to be a series of terrible mix-ups but fortunately its terrors are born only of the screamingly funny situations and side-splitting dialogue with which it abounds. Billy K. Wells, author and lyricist, has broken all his previous records in providing the material for this, his newest boo kand comedy of errors.

KITTY GARNER, with "THE MILE A MINUTE GIRLS"

Interspersed throughout the telling of this jangle of humor are specialties that provide a necessary respite for the steady diet of laughter.

Harry Bentley, the eccentric German comedian, heads the list of fun-makers and his very appearance is the signal for hearty laughter. Kitty Garner sings with her usual charm and grace some of the songs she has made popular. It has been said that "the simplest ballad when sung by Kitty Garner becomes a classic." The Morton Sisters, in a varied menu of dances and syncopated harmony songs; the Belmont Four, a quartette of voices that bring back sweet memories of by-gone days of minstrelsy; and Vivian Lawrence, the Sunbeam soubrette, one of the very clever soft shoe and acrobatic dancers before the public, all contribute to the general result.

Don't forget the chorus, for all well regulated chorus both indicate youth. Their ensemble dancing proves what can be accomplished by patience and perseverance and credit for this is due Mr. Raymond B. Perez, a clever dancer himself, who has drilled the chorus until he has brought them to a degree of proficiency well nigh perfect.

The production, showing two acts and five distinct scenes, and the wardrobe which has been prepared with a view to a hormonius blending of color, is all new and pleasing to look upon.

Our Birthday

With this issue of The Auburn Community Booster we enter into our third year as the connecting link between the progressive merchants and the wise buyers in Auburn Park.

From a small four column sheet we have developed into a standard size seven-column newspaper, a bulletin of the best bargains from the best stores in Auburn Park, together with a chronicle of the local happenings as they take place, making a combination the value of which is proven by the interest show by our readers.

We are grateful to all who have contributed to our success and hope to maintain our standard of service.

The Cosmo Program

The Cosmopolitan Theatre, probably the greatest individual institution in Auburn Park, after repeated tests of all advertising mediums, will now use the columns of The Auburn Community Booster to inform its patrons of its coming attractions and other show news. Billie Burke Returns to the Screen World

"THE MYSTERIOUS MISS TERRY"
Extract from Post.

At the Cosmo Wednesday, Sept. 12th.

Produced by Famous Players, under the direction of J. Searle Dawley. Released through Paramount. Presented at the Ziegfeld.

Cast of characters:
Mavis Terry.....Billie Burke
Paul True.....Thomas Meighan
Freddie Bolter.....Walter Hiers
John Quig.....Gerald O. Smith
Mr. Pennyquick...George A. Wright
Clara Pennyquick.....Bessie Learn
By Oma Moody Lawrence.

Billie Burke is back in the pictures, just temporarily, of course; that is, we won't have a chance to see more than two pictures a year, for Florenz Ziegfeld has a prior claim on her services for the speaking stage. And she is the same vivacious little Billie Burke of two years ago. Maternity sits lightly on her small shoulders.

The story is one of those light and frothy little bits that are just what we need nowadays. Miss Burke has the role of Mavis Terry, more widely known as Helen Wentworth, an heiress to millions. Under the cover of a yachting trip, she slips away from her circle of friends and takes lodgings in a mediocre boarding-house. There the hardware clerk, the silk-goods clerk and the struggling young author all fall in love with her. The hardware clerk recommends her for a position as cashier in the shop where he works, and she manages to keep it for a while. However, she had slipped into her own home in the absence of the caretaker and had taken some of her own clothing, which, of course, precipitated a seven days' sensation in the police department. When later she loaned one of the frocks to the daughter of the hardware merchant to wear to a party she precipitated the entire police force on the trail of the innocent girl. And so her disguise is penetrated to save her bewildered friend from disgrace.

The chief charm of the play lies in the clever touches which have been introduced by the director and the cast which has been chosen to support Miss Burke. It is mighty pleasant entertainment for a summer hour, and especially will you enjoy Walter Hiers as the hardware clerk and Gerald Smith as the silk-goods salesman.

Bits About Billie Burke

Billie Burke, who is coming to the Cosmo Theatre in "The Mysterious Miss Terry," on Wednesday, Sept. 12, was born in Washington, D. C. She went to France at an early age, however, and it was in a convent in that country that she received most of her education.

Concluding her studies, she determined to become an actress, and as her father was an actor, widely known as "Billie" Burke, she decided to make use of that name for her professional career. She was a fluent linguist, and appeared in the music halls of several of the principal European countries, principally in England before making her American debut.

Her American debut took place in New York City at the Empire Theatre where she appeared with John Drew in "My Wife" under the management of Charles Frohman. She was elevated to stardom in the role of Jacqueline in "Love Watches" a short while afterwards. Later she was seen in many well known plays as "Mrs Dot," "Suzanne," "The Philosopher," "The Runaway," "The Mind-the-Paint-Girl" and "The Amazons."

When it was found that her piquant face and winsome personality screened exceptionally well, there was a rush of managers of photoplay companies to secure her services and it was not long after her screen debut that she was engaged by Famous Players-Lasky to make Paramount Pictures. Her latest Paramount picture is "The Mysterious Miss Terry." This is an unusually vivid picture throbbing with human interest and containing an absorbing love story besides its continuous element of fun and strange, wierd mystery.

Directed by J. Searle Dawley, who was responsible for "Snow White" and many other of Marguerite Clark's greatest successes, "The Mysterious Miss Terry" bids fair to become one of the most popular photoplays of the season. The star is supported by an excellent cast including Thomas Meighan, who has recently appeared opposite Pauline Frederick with marked success.

"The Mysterious Miss Terry" is a photoplay that everybody will be talking about. You can't afford to miss it at the Cosmopolitan Theatre on Wednesday nite.

He Fox-Trots Pounds Away

After a hard day's work at his custard pie studio, Fatty Arbuckle likes nothing better than to rest up for the morrow by fox-trotting at some country road house. As a dancer the Paramount comedian is a winner.

"I know my dancing leaves something to be desired in the realm of Terpsichore's best, but if Terp will leave me my weight I'll not trade for her grace. I figures it out once. Every pound I'm over weight is worth $452 a year to me. You can guess my weight and my income tax, but if ever dancing begins to reduce the Arbuckle stock in trade, Terp and I part company.

"The average may of my height and age ought to weigh not over 175. If he's particularly successful at the age of 20—excuse by under-conscription-age embarrassment—the best he can do is to pay a tax on a $5,000 income The difference, in my case, is largely a matter of pounds. Each pound over 175 is worth $452 a year to me; mental arithmeticians can do the rest."

Inventors of first aids to the harassed housewives will doubtless besiege the patent office with new inventions when they get a glimpse of "Fatty" Arbuckle peeling potatoes in his latest two-reeler, "His Wedding Night." The plump comedian scores an original hit with his methods of preparing the simple garden vegetables. Paramount will release this comedy.

Mae Marsh in Film of the "Big Top"

"POLLY OF THE CIRCUS"

Produced by Goldwyn under the direction of Charles Thomas Horan. Art director, Everett Shinn. Presented at the Colonial.

By Oma Moody Lawrence.

Little Mae Marsh is back again—sweet, appealing and wistful as ever. The croakers who said she could work only under the general supervision of D. W. Griffith are forever silenced. For she is not working for Griffith, but for Goldwyn, under the direction of Charles Thomas Horan, of whim very few outside the industry itself have ever heard. She is just as adorable as she can be, though we must say that we wish there was more of her to be seen in "Polly of the Circus." She seems sort of incidental to the circus atmosphere. But it is wonderful atmosphere, and you will be pulled right out of yourself when you see the picture.

The settings are wonderfully realistic and the photography exquisite to the smallest detail. The whole production is a work of art, not merely a vehicle for the exploitation of the star.

At the Cosmo Friday only, Sept. 14th.

Bessie Love in "Wee Lady Betty"

Directed by Charles Miller.

Wee Lady Betty.....Bessie Love
Roger O'Reilly.....Frank Borzage
Fergus McClusky..Charles K. French
Shamus McTague .. Walter Perkins
Lanty O'Dea.....L. Jefferies
The O'Reilly.....Walter Whitman

Michael O'Brien.....J P. Lockney

In the Isle of Kilcroney, the Wee Lady Betty ruled the tenants of the O'Reilly Castle with a stern hand and a big heart. Their fear of the Wee Lady was next to the fear of the ghost of "Slasher" O'Reilly that walked in the castle. Then Sir Daniel O'Reilly, the rightful owner of the castle died, leaving the castle to Roger O'eRilly, who announced that he was coming to take possession. The tenants would not have this as the Wee Lady had been good to them, but she told them to receive the new master kindly, and prepared to leave the castle.

Not having the wherewithal to provide for her aged father, the Wee Lody contrived a scheme. Feigning to leave the castle, she had her father with the two servants returned after dark the same night and she promptly installed her father in the haunted chamber, keeping the key. The next day when Roger O'Reilly arrived his reception was a chilly one, the villagers believing that he was responsible for the Wee Lady's supposed departure. He arrived at the castle with his mother, and the Wee Lady Betty, in the guise of a maid, together with the two servants, showed them through the place, paying particular stress on the haunted chamber and the ghost of "Slasher" O'Reilly.

When Roger had gone, his mother demanded to see the haunted room, so the Wee Lady going ahead, got into an old suit or armour and said in a deep voice, "Begone!" Mrs. O'Reilly promptly fainted. The Wee Lady found that she had developed a strong liking for Roger but was thrown into despair when he, hearing about the ghost, declared that he would nail up the door of the chamber until he found time to investigate While she was getting food to her father that night she heard a door open and beheld Roger entering the room. Once more she got behind th armour and said "Begone!" and her answer was a shot from Roger's pistol, grazing her arm. There was a loud noise outside and Roger rushed rfom the room, not knowing the work his pistol had done. The angry villagers had stormed the castle and were rushing up the steps when Roger appeared at the top. A rough and tumble fight ensued between Roger and the mob below, when the Wee Lady appeared and commanded them to leave. They left the castle, leaving the Wee Lady Betty and Roger clasped in each other's arms.

To be shown at the Cosmo Tuesday, Sept. 11th.

It has been demonstrated that chronic infection in a tonsil or an abscess at the root of a tooth may be and frequently is the source from which an articular rheumatism or an acute valvular disease of the heart has its origin.

The word "massage" is derived from a Greek word meaning to knead. The practice dates back to the earliest medical history.

Bits of Byplay

The Limit.

The boob is terribly henpecked, isn't he?" remarked the old fogy.

"Should say he was," replied the grouch. "Why, his wife is making him learn to breathe through his ears so he will wake himself up when he snores."

Sure!

When in a venture you embark,
Just let your nerve stay put,
For if you do not toe the mark
You'll stay down at the foot.

Ouch!

"Dr. Carver is awfully absentminded," remarked the thin man.

"That so?" asked the fat man.

"Yes," replied the thin man. "The other day, when he was filling out a death certificate, he placed his name in the space reserved for 'Cause of death.'"

"That's a good one," laughed the fat man. "But what makes you think that he is absentminded?"

Giddap!

Where Moneybags got all his pelf
He never wants to state,
But while he won't express himself
He sure can pay the freight.

Some Reason.

"Why do you believe in that fool superstition that it is unlucky to have thirteen people at dinner?" asked Mr. Gabb.

"Because I have only twelve knives and twelve forks," replied Mrs. Gabb.

Fact.

Don't slide the man who smites your cheek,
Forgive him, oh, my brother!
And you'll find that the nervy geek
Will smite you on the other.

Paw Knows Everything.

Willie—Paw, what is a debutante?

Paw—A debutante is a girl who starts in when she comes out, my son.

Names is Names.

Rocky Rivers lives at Brackettsville, Tex.

Safety First!

Miss Henrietta Kruger of 29 Stanley gardens, Nottinghill gate, W., begs to give notice that she has changed her name to Henrietta Kingston. Although a natural born British subject, she is persuaded to make this change solely on account of any prejudice which the use of the name may occasion.—Ad. in London Times.

Too Fresh.

He flirted with her in the pew,
He was too fresh, was Walter,
But May made him feel very blue
By handing him the Psalter.

The Wise Fool.

"We never get so old that we cannot absorb information," observed the sage.

"That's right," replied the fool. "Even a chorus girl can learn something new every day."

Queer.

It is a funny thing and yet
It is quite true, you'll find—
The faster you run into debt
The more you get behind.

Just Like an Ice Pond.

Colonel Luke McLuke of the Cincinnati Enquirer says: "Editor Rountree of Texas announces that the Temple badger farm is as bleak and bald as Judd Mortimer Lewis' head. Indeed, it must be a cold, bleak and naked place, then."—Georgetown (Tex.) Commercial.

More Chaugh.

"Have a drink," said a friend, with a laugh.
"Very well," I replied, "I will quaugh."
"And what will it be?"
He shorted to me.
Said I, "I will take haugh and haugh."

An eastern savant claims that women are becoming more changeable. That's no joke. Some of them change husbands about seven times before they settle down.

It doesn't do you any good to be sure you are right if you are married. You can't prove it to your wife.

While there is no sense in waiting until a woman is so old that she is all withered up before you marry her, we never heard of a fellow copping out a child wife and having any happiness.

You always hustle when other people are waiting on you. But when you are doing the waiting other people seem to take their time.

If a man ever spends a dollar for advertising in a newspaper he gets the idea that he has a right to control the policy of the publication.

Harmony in the home often means that father is too much of a gentleman to strike a woman and that mother would be arrested for manslaughter if father ever tried to.

It takes a lifetime to make a good reputation. But you can make a bad reputation in five minutes.

The old fashioned girl who was named Mary Jane now has a daughter who is named Marie Janet.

We holler if we have to work hard when we are working. But we do not mind working hard when we are playing.

The woman who is so worldwise that a live trolley wire couldn't jar her is usually the one who is most shocked when anything happens.

Turning a Phrase.

Mr. Choate's talent for multiplying words which might not signify a great deal, but which not only sounded well, but helped to create with a jury the impression that he sought to convey, is well known. On one occasion in defending an insurance company against which a claim had been brought for the loss of a ship which was declared by the defense to be utterly unseaworthy Mr. Choate made a great impression by including in his plea these swelling words: "And so, gentlemen, overburdened with her well nigh priceless cargo and carrying her far more precious freight of human life, the vessel started on her voyage, painted, but perfidious—a coffin, but no ship!"

Dispelling the Illusion.

Suppose you should be startled in the dark night by something which looked like a specter? Would not he who should bring a lantern and show you that it was but a white cloth hanging to a bush give you far greater encouragement than he who merely exhorted you to keep up your heart, look the other way, whistle and pass on?—Richard Whately.

Naval Captains.

The saying runs that as soon as a lieutenant is made a commander he begins to carry a stick, and as soon as a commander becomes a captain he "turns religious." For justification of the latter part of this assertion there exists the undoubted fact that naval captains are mostly serious minded men who give some thought to the greater things of life Possibly their hours of loneliness may conduce to this frame of mind, though for the most part their leisure hours are given up to study of matters connected with their calling. One well known captain there was who used to hold prayer meetings, which any member of the ship's company could attend "Remember, there are no rates to be picked up here," the captain would warn them before the meetings started, meaning that any one who came there hoping to curry favor and thus get promotion would be disappointed. And in this the captain was always as good as his word.—London Mail.

There is a wide difference between being in clover and eating clover, as any one who has tried both knows.—Portland Oregonian

Chances Only Fair.

A judge who is blessed with a tremendous head of hair, which is generally in a state of wild disorder, was questioning a youthful witness to make sure that he comprehended the character and importance of the oath he was about to take.

"Boy," he said in his severest and most magisterial manner, "do you feel that you could identify me after six months? Now, be careful. Think before you speak."

"Well, your honor," replied the boy after a prolonged survey of the great judge, "I ain't dead sure, but I think I could if you wasn't to comb your hair."—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Elephants Can't Jump.

"There is one thing no one has ever seen an elephant do, either in a circus or out of it, and that is to jump," said a keeper in the zoo.

"The fact is an elephant cannot jump. Because of his great weight he cannot take all four feet off the ground at once. He can make a 100 yard dash at the rate of twenty miles an hour, which is going some, but if he was pursuing an enemy and came to a deep ditch eight feet across he would have to stop short, because it is too wide for him to step it, and he is unable to jump. An elephant is a great coward. He will have a fit if a rabbit runs between his feet. He has tremendous strength, but he doesn't know it."

The First Fly Fishers.

Doubtless the reason why artificial flies were originally invented was because it was impossible to use the smaller and more delicate natural flies as baits on the hook. The first fly fisher cast his eyes about him in search of something that would answer as imitating the flies upon which the trout were feeding Feathers were naturally the first materials thought of, and the old red cock's hackle was the first of all the artificial insects, the old, old Adam of them all. The breed has been increasing several hundred years and numbers 2,000 or more at the present day Of salmon flies alone there are several hundred patterns. These belong to the lure order mostly, as do many of the large flies used for bass and trout. The little old red hackle remains a good fly to this day and is put upon bodies of many colors, peacock harl being perhaps as well liked as anything. Red wool is favored by many.—Forest and Stream.

A Minister of Magic.

In the course of an address delivered in London Canon Farrer of Bearded said that what impressed native rulers in the east was the scrupulous honesty of the English officials. The sultan of Turkey on one occasion was watching a conjuror. The British ambassador, who was present, remarked that it was "wonderful."

"No," said the sultan, "not so wonderful as all that. I once had a minister of marine who swallowed a battleship—at least he had the money for it, and I've never seen the money or the ship!"

Know Value of Money.

"That young chap you are going around with is a regular pinhead!" stormed Bertha's father. "He doesn't even know the value of money!"

"Oh, yes, he does!" said Bertha. "He says that he wouldn't give a plugged nickel for your opinion on anything."—Puck.

To endure injustice without answering it with hatred, to endure grief without having the spirit broken, to endure disappointment and yet to go on cheerfully—these things make character.

Psychology of Sleep.

The psychology of sleep is a vast and little explored subject. Sleep deepens to trance, trance to death. Therefore in life, speaking somewhat paradoxically, sleep is most akin to death. Whether the spirit is parted from the body and goes long journeys through space or whether it is in a state of one long dream, parts of which we are alone conscious of, is a matter for the Society of Psychical Research Yet many of us have dreamed things, seen things or even spoken and heard things in sleep which we have seen, heard or spoken later on in reality. We can more or less follow the stages up to the final sleep of all, but here we must pause and, with Hamlet, in vain attempt to learn what lies beyond the veil, "And in that sleep of death what dreams may come!"—London Globe.

Though no one would think so from looking at a fluid glass of milk and a solid apple, the percentage of solids and water in apples and in milk is almost the same, apples being 85 per cent water and milk 86 per cent.

More than two-thirds of the entire area of Australia has an annual rainfall of less than twenty inches

The Lesser Evil.

"Jeshman declared he would rather go to jail than pay his divorced wife alimony."

"Did she let him?"

"Yes; she said she'd much rather see him save his money being here than spend it over them."—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

The Spirit of the Times.

It is an age of artificial devices. Rare, indeed, is the man and rare still the woman in whose physical makeup there is not something false, either eyes or teeth or hair.—Atlantic.

No Chance.

Mrs. Jones—It's queer that baby doesn't talk. She's almost two years old and hasn't spoken a word yet. Mr. Jones—I know, dear, but do you ever give baby a chance?

A sharp tongue is the only edged tool that grows keener with constant use.—Irving.

The Italian Mannlicher-Carcano rifle is of the 1891 pattern. It is rather slow, discharging only fifteen rounds of shot a minute.

Love's Blindness.

Miss Louise says if you want to know just how blind love is all you need to do is watch an engaged girl trying to find a price mark on the box in which her fiancée sent her a birthday present.—Macon Telegraph.
